Mel's Comments: Not Enough Money

During the August recess I held six town hall meeting in various parts of the 12th District. The recurring theme that seemed to ring through every meeting (regardless of whether the topic was providing better education, housing or homeland security, stopping illegal immigration or responding to the myriad of other challenges we face) was the lack of resources to do an adequate job of meeting the needs. The following Chart depicts the problem - persistent deficit spending that is not projected to get any better unless dramatic changes are made.

A downturn in the economy for several years, additional expenditures on homeland security following the events of 9/11 and the Iraq War certainly contributed to the deteriorating fiscal situation over the last five years. However, all the experts agree that the largest contributing factor (40% to 60% depending on which expert you believe) has been the massive tax cuts that have made it impossible for the federal government to collect the resources required to address our needs. Unfortunately, the full impact of these tax cuts won't trigger until 2010 or later and the problem will get inordinately worse.

Let me be clear that I voted against most of these massive tax cuts, especially those that so dramatically and disproportionately benefit people who make more than $200,000 per year. The debate about tax cuts and whether they should be permanent or be rolled back will inevitably continue. I still believe that the overwhelming majority of my constituents would favor less tax cuts for the richest 1-5% of the population and more resources for education, housing, homeland security, healthcare and the many other needs we have. That's a perspective I believe many of my colleagues would do well to understand. Balancing a budget is a function of both income and spending and the federal government simply doesn't have enough income now to meet the reasonable needs of people for services.

Backsliding Into the Deficit Ditch From Deficit to Surplus to Deficit Again

The Subcommittee also held oversight hearings on the Legal Services Corporation and Mutual Fund Trading Abuses.

U.S. SERVICE ACADEMY NOMINATIONS

Each year I nominate qualified graduating high school seniors from the 12th Congressional District for appointment to the U.S. Military, Naval, Air Force and Merchant Marine Academies. The U.S. Coast Guard Academy does not require a nomination.

The deadline for submitting a completed application to my office is November 1, 2005. If you have any questions or concerns, please contact our Service Academy Coordinator, Sharon Fisher, at 336-275-9950.

THE CITIZEN SOLDIER SUPPORT PROGRAM

The Citizen Soldier Support Program (CSSP) is designed to create a local, civilian community-centered climate of support for all military affiliated personnel and families. The mission of the CSSP is to mobilize community organizations and services to support and strengthen local citizen soldiers (National Guard and Reserve soldiers), their families and loved ones. In its inaugural year, the CSSP will serve as a demonstration initiative across North Carolina with the ultimate goal of nationwide implementation. The CSSP is targeting faith communities, schools, child and youth services, recreation programs, libraries, civic and veteran organizations, business communities, medical communities, cooperative extensions and other related public and nonprofit organization to participate in this program. To learn more about opportunities related to the Citizen Soldier Support Program, visit <http://www.RibbonsToReality.org>.

SPAM E-MAILS

Do you receive lots of junk email messages from people you don't know? As more people use email, marketers are increasingly using email messages to pitch their products and services. Some consumers find unsolicited commercial email (also known as "spam") annoying and time consuming and others have lost money responding to bogus offers that arrived by email.

The Federal Trade Commission's (FTC) Web site has information about the FTC's recent law enforcement actions against deceptive commercial email and spammers' responsibilities under the CAN-SPAM law. In the "For Consumers" section, you will find tips on how to reduce the amount of spam email in your in-box.

If you get spam emails that you think are deceptive, forward them to spam@uce.gov. The FTC collects the spam in this database and uses persistent patterns to pursue law enforcement actions against people or companies that send deceptive email.

GRANTS AND FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES

International Educators Program: In the July 14, 2005 Federal Register the U.S. Department of State Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs (ECA) and the Office of Global Educational Programs announced the availability of funding for the International Educators Program (funding opportunity number ECA/A/S/X-06-03). The International Educators Program will bring secondary teachers from Southeast Asia, the Near East, South Asia (except Afghanistan) and Russia to the United States to further develop expertise in their subject areas, to enhance their teaching skills and to increase their knowledge about the United States. The goals of the program are (1) to contribute to the improvement of teaching in the participating countries, (2) to provide opportunities for under-served populations, especially women, to have important professional and other opportunities in the U.S. to enhance their ability to contribute to national development, (3) to create among teachers a deeper understanding of the U.S. so they can share their experiences of living in a diverse democratic society with students and teachers in their home communities and (4) to develop productive and lasting relationships and mutual understanding between American and international teachers and their students. The application deadline is September 9, 2005. Applications may be submitted by public and private non-profit organizations. To request an application package, contact Patricia Mosley of the Fulbright Teacher Exchange Branch, ECA/A/S/X, Room 349, U.S. Department of State, SA-44, 301 4th Street SW Washington, D.C. 20547, (202)619-4556, fax (202)401-1433, MosleyPJ@state.gov or visit the Department of Education's Web site at <http://exchanges.state.gov/education/rfgps/menu.htm> to download the package from the Internet. For further information, contact Rozina Damanwala, Office of Global Educational Programs, ECA/A/S/X, Room 349, U.S. Department of State, SA-44, 301 4th Street SW, Washington, D.C. 20547, (202) 619-6589, fax 202-401-1433, DamanwalaRR@state.gov.

Striving Readers: In the August 15, 2005 Federal Register the U.S. Department of Education Office of Elementary and Secondary Education announced the availability of funding for the Striving Readers program (Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance number 84.371A). The purpose of the Striving Readers program is to raise the reading achievement levels of middle and high school-aged students in Title I-eligible schools with significant numbers of students reading below grade level. The program supports new comprehensive reading initiatives or expansion of existing initiatives that improve the quality of literacy instruction across the curriculum, provide intensive literacy interventions to struggling adolescent readers and help to build a strong, scientific research base for identifying and replicating strategies that improve adolescent literacy skills. The deadline to submit notice of intent to apply is September 14, 2005 and the formal application deadline is November 14, 2005. Local educational agencies with Title-I eligible schools are eligible to apply. To request an application package, contact the Education Publications Center, P.O. Box 1398, Jessup, MD 20794-1398, (877) 433-7827, fax (301) 470-1244, TDD, (877) 576-7734, <http://www.ed.gov/pubs/edpubs.html>, edpubs@inet.ed.gov. The Department will conduct a series of briefings on this competition by conference call to clarify the purposes of the program, the selection criteria and the competition process. Consult the Striving Readers Web site at <http://www.ed.gov/programs/strivingreaders> for dates and times of the pre-application meetings. For further information, contact Kathryn Doherty, U.S. Department of Education, 400 Maryland Avenue SW, Room 3W309, Washington, DC 20202-6132, (202) 205-6272, StrivingReaders@ed.gov.

Enhancing Practice Improvement in Community-Based Care for Prevention and Treatment of Drug Abuse or Co-occurring Drug Abuse and Mental Disorders: On August 17, 2005, on www.Grants.gov, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services National Institutes of Health (NIH) announced the availability of funding for the Enhancing Practice Improvement in Community-Based Care for Prevention and Treatment of Drug Abuse or Co-occurring Drug Abuse and Mental Disorders program (Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance numbers 93.279, 93.242 and 93.243, Request for Applications number RFA-DA-06-001). This program is intended to enhance the capacity of community-based providers of drug abuse prevention/treatment services, including services for individuals with co-occurring mental disorders, to conduct practice improvement research. Such research may entail the examination of therapeutic and/or business practices currently in use but lacking scientific evidence of effectiveness, or it may entail examination of the adoption, implementation and sustained use of science-based therapeutic and/or business innovations. The deadline to submit notice of intent to apply is November 18, 2005 and the formal application deadline is December 19, 2005. Community-based providers, organizations or agencies that deliver services to prevent or treat substance abuse disorders or co-occurring substance abuse and mental disorders in a nonacademic setting are eligible to apply. Application forms and instructions are available at both www.Grants.gov and <http://grants.nih.gov/grants/funding/phs398/phs398.html>. For further information, visit www.Grants.gov.
